Return nature back to children

EliNeli's philosophy is simple yet very topical. In an age of technological advances, inventions and toys, children are increasingly being drawn away from traditional toys made from natural materials, toys that our parents used to play with, toys that not only develop children's abilities and skills but connect children with nature.
Toys are inherently part of a child's world.Through years of watching (not only our) children at play we have have been able to select toys that engage, entertain and develop children. At EliNeli we have focused on the production of children's furniture and especially toys that are very popular with children and parents, from natural wood and long-lasting materials.

We were inspired by the Montessori approach and principles and have brought this into our products. We use only high quality natural materials. The toys are enriched with elements and accessories from the real world. The amount and arrangement are designed to develop children's sensory perception, creativity, imagination, dexterity and motor skills.
Our products are made from different types of natural wood and materials that bring nature back into children's room. Because the safety of children is our top priority, all products are certified and we use only non-toxic, water-based paints and varnishes.
Visit us at elineli.eu to complete your child's interior with children's furniture, active, motor and educational toys from EliNeli and give back to your children part of nature into their childhood world. Allow children to make nature part of their daily activities and lives.

Why We Created Eli Play – Your Guide to Smart Play and Child Development

Today's busy world often cause parents to look for easy solutions to keep their children entertained - and that usually means using a tablet or phone. This cuts down on time for meaningful play.

Parents are often unsure how to play with toys, how to use them properly and what exactly they develop in a child. That's why we created Eli Play - an app that gives parents back their desire to play and their children parents' time. With Eli Play, parents can find exact instructions on how to use each toy and how to support key skills at different stages of development.

In addition, the Educational Montessori boxes contain carefully selected toys appropriate for the age of the child, so parents can be sure that their children are getting exactly what they need at that age. Thanks to this, children can discover the world in a meaningful way and parents can support them in doing so.

We developed the Eli Play app with experts in the Montessori approach to give parents as much insight as possible into how this way of education works and how best to put its principles into practice. Eli Play is here to bring children and parents closer together through meaningful play, and to help parents know how to support children's natural development so they can make the most of every toy.

Eli Play - the first of its kind, a guide for all parents who want to spend time with their children and give them the best in the most important years of their lives.

MISSION MONTESSORI

The concept is based on Maria Montessori's knowledge – she was a physician, a psychologist, and a philosopher, the first woman with a university degree in these fields in Italy. She founded her pedagogical methods on practical knowledge, especially from the children's homes. She found out that children suffer in the environment poor on stimuli.
She urged the idea that the power for learning and development should be an inner interest. The parents' task is to offer their children a developing environment which attracts to discoveries. Children intuitively choose the activity that attracts them most and keeps their attention. The base of the Montessori approach is the connection of physical perception and thinking. The more senses are involved into exploring the world around them the better. The motor activity is especially important. For instance, imagine games in digital form – everything happens very fast, there is a huge amount of impressions for the child's mind, and the only connection to the physical world is by clicking. According to Maria Montessori hands are a tool of spirit.

The Montessori elements encourage to slow down during a play, to concentrate on one specific activity, to explore mainly through touch and other senses and to interact with the objects.

The Montessori pedagogy is not alternative or experimental, the author based it simply on children's natural needs. She took them seriously and wanted to motivate their self-development. She was touched by one child's sentence – „Help me to do it by myself."
She observed well that for a child his own discoveries and successes are the most valuable. On this basis we created a project of a Montessori child's room.
We made our offer an interconnected reasonable complex where specific elements complement each other. Offer your children their own little world where they can gain skills step by step and that will help them not to get lost in the „big world".

Let's make a tour of this world, let's explore: cosy, well-arranged, safe, playful and inspiring at the same time – this is our idea of a Montessori child's room.
It combines the clean and functional design of our products with the elements of Montessori approach.

MONTESSORI PRINCIPLE

„Observing the child makes it obvious that the development of his mind comes through its movements."
Maria Montessori, The Absorbent Mind

Maria Montessori perceives the body and the mind as one whole. Any specific movement or touch perception enables the child to gain experience from our environment. This leads to the mental development as well as the body control and greater integration with the environment. We develop our Montessori toys especially for such education. We hold the view that in the first six years of child's life we should initiate the brain primarily by hands, not for example through the screen. For a child, the interaction with the physical world is important.
Where else to create a stimulating place for your child's development than in his own room.
